ORATORS PRAISE PRINCE

Republicans Hold Meetings All Over City.

KUHIO TALKS TO BIG CROWDS

Party Leaders Leave Today on Speechmaking Tour of Wind- ward Oahu.

Good, common-sense Republicanism was talked to a large assemblage in the Portuguese Social Hall on upper Punch-bowl street last evening, and although Prince Kuhio was unable to appear as planned, yet a deep impression was made upon the voters. The meeting was held under the direction of Robert N. Boyd, ably seconded by J. F. Durao, the Portuguese orator. W. W. Harris, Frank Andrade, J. F. Durao, Robert Boyd, L. L. McCandless and S. F. Chillingworth spoke.

Those who could not get seats in the hall stood upon the porches and peered in through the windows and demonstrated their approval by frequent bursts of applause.

W. W. Harris spoke upon the general principles of the Republican party and the business depression which had resulted in Hawaii because of the inaction of the Home Rule legislature. He urged the voters to look well to the future and vote the straight Republican ticket.

L. L. McCandless dwelt on the failures of Home Rule and spoke earnestly for the support of the Portuguese voters for the men on the ticket who would stand for good government and make good their promises to the people.

Frank Andrade made two speeches during the evening, one of Republicanism in general, strongly urging the people against voting a scratched ticket, and more particularly against voting for an independent candidate, referring to Camara. Mr. Andrade spoke against the Wilcox leper bill, indicating the results which would attend the making of Molokai a national leper colony, and the efforts of the people would have upon the rest of the world. The Hawaiian Islands depended considerably upon the tourist trade which would be driven away in the event of the Wilcox bill ever becoming a law. The address was applauded.

J. F. Durao made an address in Portuguese in which he eloquently referred to the past history of the Portuguese nation and its glorious achievements in discoveries and commercial prestige. The glory which accrued to the Portuguese nation in the past through the efforts of Pedro was accomplished by principles which today could be considered neither more nor less than those of Republicanism. The Portuguese people had passed through a period of darkness owing to leaders who had led them in the wrong paths. Now was the time when they could emerge from their darkness by voting the Republican ticket, straight through, for it was the Republican party in the United States which was now making the great Republic the greatest on the globe.

S. F. Chillingworth said for a man of his age to get up before an audience and tell them to vote the Republican ticket was worthy of consideration, for he was not the one to attempt to lead the people into wrong ways. His stand in furthering the principles of the Republican party emanated from the base of all good things, the family. It was a duty he owed his family to vote for good government. He asked what the Home Rule legislature had done and voices shouted from the hall, "Nothing!" All they did was to spread out the session as long as possible and draw their salaries. The speaker recounted Wilcox's failures at Washington and his flimsy excuses to his people here and again his falsehoods to Congress as to the status of the party which sent him there. Congress could see right through his attempts to lie and he had therefore accomplished nothing for the Territory, except to separate $7,000 salary and expenses from Uncle Sam's strong box.

Robert N. Boyd made a stirring address on the duty which all owed to the Republican party on the mainland by sending Prince Cupid to Congress as the representative of the people here, and urged all to vote the straight Republican ticket.

KUHIO AT MOILILI.

Prince Kuhio appeared before the voters of Moiliili last night and held them to every word he uttered in behalf of the Republican party, himself as the nominee of that party for delegate to Congress and for the legislative ticket. When the meeting was about to be called to order, which was long before the Prince arrived, Camara, an independent seeker for votes, came at the head of a band of musicians and two kegs of beer.

Attorney Correa, the lieutenant of Camara, invited the crowd away from Moiliili church to partake of the beer and for a while the Republicans waited while the kegs were being emptied. As soon as the crowd found there was no more refreshment for them they returned to the church, where Kuhio soon after came and made a speech. Camara attempted to vilify the Republican party, but the chairman of the meeting calmly told him that the Portuguese in that section had already declared themselves for Prince Kuhio.

The Prince made a strong appeal to the natives and all voters to remain steadfastly with the Republican ticket, vote it straight and elect a Republican legislature. He was greeted with cheers.

REPUBLICANISM AT KALIHI CAMP.

The meeting at the Kalihi Camp was presided over by Isaac Sherwood, about 250 people being present in the hall. Kelekolio spoke in general of the Republican ticket and the candidates and was followed by Ed. Mossman in the same vein, both urging the natives to vote for the straight party ticket headed by the name of Kuhio. C. W. Kinney made an excellent address on the leper question. He had just returned from Molokai and made a plea on behalf of the lepers to vote against Wilcox as they did not want any change in the management of the Settlement. David Kanuha appealed to the natives to forget that they once may have voted for Wilcox, to forget that he had accomplished nothing for the Hawaiians or the Islands, and urged them to help to send Prince Kuhio to Congress. Nawaa made an excellent address on general Republican principles and was followed by Henry Yida, Judge Kaulukou, and James Shaw. Charles Clark made an appeal to the natives of the camp to vote the straight Republican ticket. He talked of the benefits which the Republicans could give them.

MANY NOON MEETINGS.

Noon and quitting time meetings filled the day for Prince Kuhio and other Republican candidates yesterday. There were no less than four meetings and as much as well attended and the enthusiasm was great all along the line, the day was considered well spent by the Prince and his fellows.

The first meeting of the day was that at Brewer's wharf, where after Robert N. Boyd had called the meeting to order Prince Kuhio was presented. There was a fair crowd, but the sound of the voice of the leader was the signal for the gathering of a greater number and very soon the crowd was at the least 150 people on the dock. Not all were Republicans but the interest shown in the remarks of the Prince was intense and the cheers when he made his points showed that whatever the politics of the listener he appreciated the scoring by the Republican leader.

Prince Kuhio began by telling the people how he came to leave the Home Rule people simply because of the fact that there was no use for him to longer work there for the people, as only two men were permitted to have opinions. Then he turned to the campaign which Wilcox is making against the Republicans, which party Wilcox says is dominated by the foreigners. He showed the people that we must expect some benefits from the white people, yet Wilcox calls them cockroaches and monkeys. If the Hawaiians are in the majority here, and wish to fight the white people in this way, it will not have the ill effect that it will in the United States where the white people are in the majority and the people of Hawaii must have their votes in Congress to secure any benefits for the islands. He pleaded with the people to work for the good of the country and not to let themselves to a passionate campaign of abuse and racial prejudice.

When he had concluded Prince Kuhio left, but he was followed by candidates for the Senate Achi and McCandless, and by Messrs. Kaulukou, Yida, Kumale, Aylett and others. The Prince meantime went on to the Cotton-Neill Iron Works and there addressed the meeting of the iron workers. There was a large gathering of workmen and all listened with attention while Prince Kuhio told of the necessity for a delegate to Congress. He pleaded with the majority of Congress. He pleaded too for the redeeming of the Territory, and said that he would try and give to the people honest and earnest work if he was sent on to Washington, and would not seek for his own aggrandizement.

At the same time there was being held at the Honolulu Iron Works a meeting which was well attended by the workers. The speakers were candidates Isenberg, Long, Harris and Andrade, and they were well received.

At half past four o'clock yesterday afternoon there was held at the stable of Hustace & Company a mass meeting of the employees of that company, and of Peck & Company as well. Prince Kuhio was the principal speaker. He dwelt upon the necessity for action which would bring back business to the city and said that he hoped if elected to secure some benefits for the people. Other candidates followed him and all were well received.

SPEECHMAKING TOUR.

Prince Kuhio, Senator McCandless and other Republican leaders leave at six o'clock this morning for a speech-making tour of the other side of the island. The party will reach Waialua tonight in time for the big meeting there. A special train to take passengers to the city will leave Honolulu at 5:10 p. m. today and will return to the city yesterday morning to cover practically the same ground and it is understood that the two parties will meet at Laie.

BETHEL STREET ORATORS.

The "free-for-all" speaker's stand on Hotel and Bethel street was an attraction for those who wanted fun. Posters were tacked to the sides in the afternoon announcing that C. W. Ashford and others would speak there at 7:30, but it was mostly the "others" whom the crowd took heed of in their comments. Ashford made his speech and the crowd then yelled for more. It had not long to wait for a tall, lanky, cadaverous, long bearded looking anarchist ascended the platform. He gazed anxiously once or twice in the direction of the Chinese store opposite whence came the hen's fruit last Saturday night. Having satisfied himself that the crowd had no nickels to waste on egg-throwing he swung his arms about wildly and opened his mouth. His first effort to get out his words failed for the audience howled and yelled "Why don't you go on?" The would-be orator attempted to say something when another avalanche of derisive epithets greeted him. At length he gripped the post at the corner of the platform and yelled above the din, "Fellow citizens." A wag in the crowd retorted: "Look out for the egg," and the old man ducked. As the promised egg failed to come and explode he gathered himself again and sailed in. He was an anarchist, a socialist, a nihilist, and only lacked a red flag to make the illusion complete.

"Fellow citizens," he again shouted. "I am here to ask that you vote for good government. What we want is good government. We want $2 a day for plantation laborers; we want eight hours a day for every one who works; we want everybody to knock off work at 12 o'clock noon and have an hour and a half for his lunch; we want $1,000 insurance on every man in the Territory who works; we want better houses to live in."

The funny part of it was that the man was in deadly earnest.

HOME RULE RUMORS.

On a par with the rumors that Prince Kuhio was not of age, that he had not registered, and that he had sold out to certain parties unknown, was that which was lively but short-lived yesterday afternoon. This report, supposed to have been born among a crowd of Home Rulers at the corner of Bethel and Hotel streets about noon, was to the effect that the Republican leader had withdrawn from the ticket. It was passed along Hotel street and finally became so widespread that there were many calls made upon the Prince at his office by those who were desirous of seeing as to the truth of the report. There never was even a scintilla of fact upon which such a statement could be based, and the Prince laughed heartily when it was brought to his attention and he was asked to make a statement. He would not treat the matter seriously at all, preferring to simply smile over the ridiculous side of the report. He dismissed it finally with the remark: "These people will find that I am not a boy to quit before there has been a conclusion to the fight."

The rumor once started went on until it had embraced the entire Republican ticket; among the men said to have withdrawn were McCandless and Achi as senators and almost the entire Representative list. The same denials are made in each case, and the reports are unqualifiedly false, in every particular.
